

Arvada Chamber of Commerce Welcomes Two New Members To The Board of Directors

ARVADA, Colo., November 16, 2011 - The Arvada Chamber of Commerce welcomes Brett Haigler with My Interest Broker, Inc. as the incoming board of directors chair and new board members Jerry Marks of Custom Environmental Services and Sean Kaiser of the Egg & I Restaurant.

As the board chair, Haigler helps promote the Arvada Chamber's many benefits, including its money-saving workers' comp plan, networking events, educational programs and business resources. He has been involved with the Arvada Chamber for nine years. His level of commitment to Arvada is visible in his involvement with three local boards, including the Arvada Economic Development Council, the Jefferson County Economic Development Council and Exempla Lutheran Medical Foundation.

"I'm looking forward to leading the Arvada Chamber's board of directors, which is comprised of some of Arvada's most dedicated and successful business owners," said Haigler. "My goal is to make sure the Arvada Chamber is top of mind when companies are looking for the resources they need to grow their business. Our chamber will continue to focus on empowering businesses to succeed in 2012 and beyond."

Marks is an Arvada native and founder of Custom Environmental Services. He has been an Arvada Chamber member for six years. He brings a passion for community service, supporting 21 charities in the area in addition to vast experience in business leadership and entrepreneurship.

Kaiser has been an active member of the Arvada Chamber since he moved to Arvada one year ago, attending and sponsoring numerous events. His professional involvement with three Colorado Chambers of Commerce will be an inspiration to other business people in the community. His goals include expanding membership diversity, strengthening community leadership, and fostering entrepreneurial spirit and business success.

"I look forward to working with the new board chair and newly appointed board directors each year," said Arvada Chamber president Dot Wright. "Brett, Jerry and Sean all bring a unique business background and approach to the organization, which will help us stay motivated to meet the new opportunities that are coming our way in 2012."

Re-elected board members include Frank Barone of Barone, Inc. and Erika O'Hara of ReMax Alliance.
